Brand new timber floors

Installing a new hardwood floor is a large investment especially because timber floors tend to last the lifetime of the house. Different hardwood floors suit different styles of house as well as different timbers require different levels of sanding. One of the most common mistakes is applying the incorrect sanding method to the wrong timber, which consequences in an uneven grain. We have over years of experience in Timber Floor Sanding Melbourne and know how to deliver an expert job every time.

Floor sanding is a vital step in transforming your wooden floors. It involves removing the top layer of the floor's surface to reveal a fresh as well as even base.

This process helps to eradicate any imperfections, scratches, or stains on the surface of the timber. Not only does floor sanding improve the appearance of your floors, but it also extends their lifespan. One of the main benefits of Floor Sanding Melbourne is that it allows you to reestablish the natural beauty of your wooden floors. Over time, timber floor surfaces will wear out due to foot traffic, spills, and exposure to sunlight. Floor sanding as polishing service removes the damaged top layer and reveals the fresh, smooth, as well as natural color of the timber underneath. This can promptly transform the look and feel of your entire floor.
