Some Information about the Herpes Simplex Virus (HSV)There are two types of the Herpes Simplex Virus (HSV); that is the HSV-1 and HSV-2. Both of these types belong to the Herpesviridae group. The HSV type-1 is acquired orally and causes cold sores, where as the HSV type-2 is acquired through sexual intercourse and affects mainly the genital area. Even though genital herpes are in most cases caused by the HSV type-2 infections, there has been an increase in the number of cases of people in developed countries who have genital herpes resulting from HSV-1 infections.

Out of all the people that are infected with HSV-2, around 20-25% of them are aware that they have the virus. This is because HSV-2 infection is asymptomatic; thus, many of these people don't get diagnosed, leading them to pass on the virus unknowingly to their sexual partners.
