Symptoms of Impotence might include:

A man who suffers from the problem of erectile disorder experiences a great level of difficulty while he tries to attain or preserve an erection. This problem usually interferes with sensual activity. The sensual illness can take place sometimes suddenly or gradually. A lot of men lose the firmness of their erection as well.

Many times the symptoms of erectile disorder in males are caused due to psychological factors. A lot of men who suffer from erectile disorder can continue to have normal orgasms and ejaculation without a full erection.

Causes of Impotence might include:

Vascular (blood vessel) disease

An erection takes place when an adequate amount of blood is collected in the male organ shaft. Vascular diseases can lessen the amount of flow of blood to the male organ. These diseases even reduce the flow of blood that stays in the male organ. This might result in the erection problems. It is the most common cause of the problem of erectile disorder in men.

Nerve damage

The functioning of the nerves must be proper to help a man get and even keep an erection for a very long time. The damage to the nerves might be caused by a lot of factors. These can be diabetes, multiple sclerosis, prostate surgery or damage to the spinal cord.

Psychological factors

A lot of psychological issues can lead to weak erections in males. These can be depression, anxiety, guilt or fear. These factors are the major reason behind the occurrence of erectile disorder in men. Embarrassment or "performance anxiety" can worsen the problem of weak erections in men.

Medications

A lot of medications can impair the sensual functioning in men. These can comprise the drugs for high blood pressure, depression, heart disease and prostate cancer.

Hormonal problems

Low levels or abnormal levels of hormones can harm the erection-gaining ability of a man. These can even reduce the sensual drive in men. Low levels of testosterone can sometimes lead to erectile disorder in males.
